Terrace Gladioli Gardens

CULTURAL DIRECTIONS

THE GLADIOLUS will grow on almost any soil that will grow corn or potatoes. Rich garden soil suits it well, and poor soil should be improved with a good dressing of well-rotted manure. Plant as soon as the earth is in a mallow condition usually after trees are out in leaf and until June 15th.

After the land is well prepared furrows should be made about three feet apart and about six inches deep for large bulbs. The bulbs are then placed in the furrows from two to four inches apart. Small bulbs are placed closer together and the rows may be closer together for smaller bulbs. The furrows are then covered 3 inches, or in light soil 4 to 5 inches.

In planting in garden beds or borders, place the bulbs four to six inches apart and four to five inches deep.

If planted at intervals starting from the time that the ground is in workable condition up to the middle of June, a succession of flowers can be obtained. As a rule the earliest and latest blooms secure the best prices in the market.

Bulblets should be planted very early in a shallow trench and kept free from weeds. They often bloom the first year.

FERTILIZER:—For a top dressing after the bulbs are planted, ground bone or hardwood ashes, or both, may be used with good results. The plants thrive with moisture and plenty of sunshine.

FOR CUT FLOWER USE:—The spike should be cut as soon as the first flower opens on the stalk, preferably before the dew is off in the morning, but never in the heat of the day. Place the cut flowers in a deep vase, with at least 8 inches of water. Remove the faded blossoms, cut a little off the stem and change the water daily. Treated this way the buds will open perfectly.

HARVESTING THE BULBS:—After cutting the blooms the bulbs remain in the ground until the end of September to attain their full growth. They must be taken up before freezing weather, the tops cut off, and the bulbs spread on racks to dry thoroughly. They may then be stored on racks, preferably not over four or five inches deep—in any fairly warm, dry cellar and dirt and bulblets can be cleaned off when convenient later on.

INTRODUCTION

To you who receive my catalog for the first time I'll explain briefly that my vocation or hobby is growing and selling Gladioli. Ten years ago I began with nine varieties. My first catalog in 1924 listed fifty varieties. Each succeeding year I increased my list with the newer introductions. This year I have added twenty-five new varieties.

To get the most pleasure out of Glad growing it pays to keep adding a few newer varieties to your collection.

Under our new way of this year listing you can make up your own collections and buy your bulbs you really want at reduced prices. How often have you wanted to buy a bulb collection, but already had some of the items in the assortment offered? Under our new listing you can make up your own collection.

TERMS

Cash with order. Remittance may be sent in any way most convenient to the purchaser. We pay postage on all shipments, anywhere in the United States.

PRICES

The prices in this list are for large blooming size stock one and one-fourth inches and up in diameter. Those wishing planting stock and bulblets, please write for prices.

OUR GUARANTEE

Send us your order for bulbs, select as many as you need. If you are not satisfied after you receive the bulbs, return them to us and we will refund your money.

ORDER EARLY

Every spring there is a scarcity of large bulbs. The demand for gladiolus is increasing tremendously especially the newer varieties will be sold out early. We have discontinued a number of the older varieties, in favor of newer and better sorts. In this list, we give only varieties that have proven for us worthy of growing, either for pleasure or profit.
